Man is but a Dreamer.

(Written for the Advertiser.)
By GLENN TITON.
"The sound of the grunting is low."
A ripple is heard in the stream,
The face of the water is broken,
Like a sleeper lost in his dream:
A dream that brings sorrow and pain,
That those who in his cabin abide,
He fears through his kind, loving care,
Their needs he may fail to provide.
That the signs of children in his arms,
While his heart so bursting with pain,
Envelopes his vision in tears.
He awakes and his heart is relieved,
No longer in terror he covers;
His soul with contentment is filled,
Like a stream well hooded with showers.
So man, but a dreamer below,
In mist and in darkness he gropes,
Unstable, unsettled, he moves,
With nothing of solace but hopes.
He hopes for a haven beyond,
He hopes for a haven of rest,
When dreaming and hoping is o'er,
In waking he found with the best.
"Man many inventions hath sought,
Many schemes in his weakness hath planned,
Many others, and better than these,
Away to this dreamer's fair land.
His soul with grave doubts is filled,
With sacred regard for the rod;
In penance he weeps and he prays,
Dismissing the wisdom of God.
There is nothing in Nature he craves,
No hope of a future reward,
No hope of a future reward,
Buckled in the creeds.

Paradise (a Fantasy).

(Written for the Advertiser.)
By N. M. RUSSELL.
"Verily, I say unto thee, to-day shalt thou be with me in Paradise."
Together we'll fly, my love and I,
To the isles of the sunset sea,
To that mystic zone near the Great White Throne,
Where Lucerne sweet from Eden's retreat
Kisses the strand of the beautiful sea.
Just over the way is a silvery bay,
That flows from the sunset sea.
And slender waves, with heaven dewed waves,
Those isles of the sunset sea.
We'll list to the song of the heavenly throng
In the isles of the sunset sea.
For Heaven's refrain but re-echoes again
With a softer tone in the mystic zone,
In the isles of the sunset sea.
Together we'll fly, my love and I,
To the isles of the sunset sea.
On that beautiful strand in Paradise land,
Where the waves of sin can ne'er enter in
To the isles of the sunset sea.
Come, love, we'll abide by the silvery tide,
On the isles of the sunset sea.
Till eternity's day, then we'll fly o'er the bay,
And dwell more on the sanctified shore,
In the realms of the sunset sea.
East Seaboard.

Old Times in Woodstock. No. 2.

DR. J. C. GALLISON.

Among the famous names of millwrights is that of the old Samuel B. Locke, who founded corn mills at West Paris, and was the early pioneer at the famous "Locke's Mills" in Greenwood. He was a man of wonderful mechanical skill, of great fertility of resource, and was exceedingly every difficulty which presented. With indomitable perseverance he turned over the newly established mills at West Paris to his family, to plunge into the untrodden wilderness and conquer the country stores. In Greenwood there to spend the best part of his life in building up the wonderful buildings and mills that bore his name in Greenwood. The fame of these mills extended far and wide, about them clustered numbers of country stores. Here were assembled country workers of every degree of skill and ability. Here in time came small capitalists who loaned their money to the poverty stricken farmers at unheard of usury. In fact Locke's Mills became, one great financial center to the country, a great extent rivaling those wonderful aggregations of capital which seemed to be found only at Paris Hill and vicinity.

We have said that next to the millwright was prized the primitive blacksmith. These artisans were few and far between and their efforts accordingly prized.

Among the most wonderful men that ever made Woodstock their home was Rowse Bisbee. He was from Rowse, Massachusetts. Coming to Maine, he settled in Buckfield, and later in Woodstock. In him were combined in an unusual degree the abilities of blacksmith, hunter, millwright and blacksmith of wonderful skill.

He was a valuable man in any capacity, far surpassing his friends and neighbors. His abilities were in constant demand. He started a corn-mill near "Kingsway" in Woodstock, but for lack of water this was soon abandoned. Turning his attention to farming he became eminently successful in the "Perham neighborhood" of Woodstock. The roaming spirit of the hunter became too strong for him, and he built a rifle and taking with him his enormous bear traps, he plunged into the wilderness and appeared early in the century at the beginning of the little village of Pinhook. Here he built a corn-mill, established his blacksmith shop, and for lack of water this was soon abandoned. ## The Navy and the New Woman.

By Cutcliffe Hyne.
Copyright, 1899, by C. J. Cutcliffe Hyne.
"Do you?" said Kettle. "Then pray that this breeze doesn't drop, as it seems likely to do, or you'll lose them. I tell you what I was up to below just now: You remember those kegs of blasting powder? Well, they're in the place where some of you stowed them, and they're all of them unheeded, and one of them carries the end of a fuse. That fuse is out to burn just 20 minutes, and the end's lighted. Wait a bit. It's no use going to try to douse it. It's a pistol fixed to the lazarette hatch, and if you try to lift it that pistol will shoot into the powder and we'll all go up together without further parley. Steady now, there, and hear me out. You can't lower away boats a-3 get clear that way. The boats' bottoms will tumble away so soon as you try to hoist them off the skids. I saw to that last night. And you can't require any fellow to know there are too many sharks about to make a swim healthy exercise."

The men began to rustle and talk. "Now, don't spoil your only chance," said Kettle, "by singing out. If on the contrary you see they think there's anything wrong, they'll run out a gun or two and blow us out of the water before we can come near them. I've got no arms to give you, but you have your knives, and I guess you shouldn't wait. Get in the shadow of the rail there and keep hid till you hear her jump. The jump on board, knock everybody you see over the side and keep the rest below."

The men crept away, shaking, and Captain Kettle himself took over the wheel and appeared to drowse over it. He gave her half a spoke at a time, and by invisible degrees the bark fell off till she headed dead on for the cruiser. Sure for the faint creaking of her gear on through the night like some patched and rattling phantom. Far down in her lazarette the glowing end of the fuse crept nearer to the powder barrels, and in imagination every mind on board was following its draw to the Cancellerio and ever nearer. The waiting men felt as though the hearts of them would leap from their breasts. Two of them faintly. Then came a hail from the cruiser: "Bark ahoy! Are you all asleep there?"

Captain Kettle drowsed on over the wheel. Donna Clotilde, from the shadow of the house, could see him nodding like a man in a deep sleep. "Carrajo, you bark there! Put down your helm. You'll be aboard of us in a minute!"

Kettle made no reply. His hands moved automatically at the spokes, and the glow from the binnacle fell upon those shut eyes. It was a fine bit of acting. The Chileans shouted, but they could not prevent the collision, and when it came there broke out a yell as though the gates of the pit had been suddenly unlocked. The bark's crew of human refuse, mad with terror, rose in a flock from behind the bulwarks. As one man they clambered up the cruiser's side and spread about her decks. All provided with weapons though they might be, the Chileans were scarcely better armed. A sentry snubbed off his rifle, but that was the only shot fired. Knives did the greater part of the work. Knives and belaying pins and whatever else came to hand. Those of the watch on deck who did not run below were cleared into the sea, the berth deck was stormed, and the waking men remembered to the pistol nose. A

Kettle did the greater part of the work. A couple of desperate fellows went below and cowed the fireman and engineer on watch. The morning was shipped, steam was given to the engines, and when her former crew were being hoisted down into an empty hold the Cancellerio was standing out at a 16 knot speed toward the open sea under full command of the raiders. Then from behind them came the roar of an explosion and the spur of dazzling light, and the men endeavored to think of what they had so narrowly missed.

Donna Clotilde went on to the upper bridge and took Captain Kettle by the hand. "My friend," said she, "I shall never forget this."

"I am earning my pay," said Kettle. "Hah!" she said. "Don't let money come between us. I cannot bear to think of you in connection with sordid things like that. I put you on a higher plane, Captain," she said and turned her head away. "I shall choose a man like you for a husband."

"Heaven mend your taste, miss," said Kettle, "but—there may be others like me."

"There are not."

"Then you must be content with the nearest you can get."

Donna Clotilde stamped her foot up on the plank of the bridge.

Dr. Greene's NERVURA

BLOOD NERVE REMEDY.

Your most heartfelt prayer is for health. You suffer from all sorts of symptoms and the diseases headache, dyspepsia, torpid liver, kidney trouble, insomnia, nervousness, melancholy, lassitude, weak and tired feelings, neuralgic pains and aches, rheumatism, or female complaints. Take Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, discovered by that famous and successful specialist, Dr. Greene, and all your life, your weaknesses and bad feelings, your aching head, and that tired body will be relieved as if by magic, for there is nothing in the world which will so quickly purify and enrich your blood and strengthen, invigorate and vitalize your nerves as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Dr. Greene, 24 Temple Pl., Boston, Mass., the most successful of all women's physicians, is the best adviser of sick and ailing women. He invites women to write him freely about their cases, without money and without price. Thousands of women by seeking his sympathy and advice have been restored to health, and no suffering woman should neglect this sure means of cure, but write at once for his advice and counsel.

Woman's Prayer for Health Answered by Dr. Greene's Nervura.

"You are dull!" she cried.
"No," he said. "I have my clear eight, miss. Won't you go below, now, and get a spell of sleep? Or will you give me your orders first?"
"No," she answered, "I will not. We must settle this matter first. You have a wife in England, I know, but that is nothing. Divorce is simple here. I have influence with the church. You could be set free in a day. Am I not the woman you would choose?"
"Miss La Touche, you are my employer."

"Answer my question."
"Then, miss, if you will have it, you are not."

"But why? Why? Give me your reasons! You are brave. Surely I have shown courage too. Surely you must admire that."

"But, you see, miss," said Kettle, "I prefer to be linked to a lady who is my superior—as I am linked at present. If it pleases you, we had better end this talk."

"No," said Donna Clotilde, "it has got to be settled one way or the other. You know what I want. Marry me as soon as you are set free, and there shall be no end of your power. I will make you rich. I will make you famous. Chile shall be at our feet. The world shall bow to us."

"It could be done," said Kettle, with a sigh.
"Then marry me."
"With due respect, I will not," said the little man.

"You know you are speaking to a woman who is not accustomed to be thwarted."

Captain Kettle bowed.
"Then you will either do as I wish or leave this ship. I give you an hour to consider it in."

"You will find my second mate the best navigating officer left," said Kettle, and Donna Clotilde without further words left the bridge.

He waited for a decent interval and then sighed and gave orders. The men on deck obeyed him with quickness. A pair of boat davits were swung out, board and the boat plentifully victualled and its water breakers stopped, and the Cancellerio's engines were started, and the launches were moved, and the boat was lowered to the water and rode there at the end of its painter. Captain Kettle left the bridge in charge of his first officer and went below. He found the lady sitting in the commander's cabin with head pillowed upon her arms.

"You still wish me to go, miss?" he said.
"If you will not accept what is offered."

"I am sorry," said the little sailor. "Very sorry. If I'd met you miss, before I saw Mrs. Kettle, and if you'd been a bit different, I believe I could have liked you. But as it is—"

She leaped to her feet, with eyes that blazed. "Go!" she cried. "Go, or I will call upon some of those fellows to shoot you!"

"They will do it cheerfully if you ask them," said Kettle, and he did not budge.
She sank down on the sofa again with a wail. "Oh, go!" she cried. "If you are a man, go and never let me see you again!"

Captain Kettle bowed and went out on deck. A little later he was alone in the quarter boat. The Cancellerio was drawing fast away from him into the night, and the boat danced in the creases of her wake.

"Ah, well," he said to himself, "there's another good chance gone for good and always! What a cantankerous beggar I am!" And then for a moment his thoughts went elsewhere, and he got out paper and a stump of pencil and briskly scribbled an elegy to some poppies in a cornfield.

West Oxford Fair.

Thursday of last week, the West Oxford fair was the center of interest for a large crowd from the surrounding country. There were two races on the card. The results: 2.38 class, trotting, was won by Joker; Jack (N. J. Foss), second; Starbore (J. B. Fogg), third. Best time, 2.33. Named race was won by Dorris (N. J. Foss); J. W. E. (N. E. Keudall), second; Dandie Dimont (B. F. Bennett), third. Best time, 2.31 1/2.

The Exhibits.
In the lower hall were found many coops of ducks, turkeys, geese and all the various breeds of fowls; exhibits of vegetables, corn, etc. One of the squashes weighed 50 pounds. Several cream separators attracted much attention and also the heating apparatus here. In the upper hall were found the handiwork of the ladies. There was a more varied exhibit than is often seen. It comprised the usual fine needlework, rugs, bread, cakes, butter, pickles and canned fruits, etc., and also large displays of lace work (Battenburg) and embroidery, some of which was 30 years old. Eva Walker exhibits fine wood-carving and construction drawing. She is a student at Pratt's Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Paintings—"The Beautiful" is represented by Mrs. B. S. Newman, Louise Abbott and Katherine Abbott in water colors. The richness of coloring noticeable in all B. T. Newman's work is seen in that of his pupils, who cannot fail to catch his love of nature and his true artistic spirit. In the field of industrial art, Miss E. D. Walker shows some architectural drawings. Plan of a house and machine drawing. She also exhibits a specimen of wood work in a pair of carved bellows.

Household Manufactures.—Many are the articles showing skill in execution and taste in arrangement exhibited by the ladies in the upper hall. The recent fad for spinning and weaving adopted by people of fashion as a pastime has not affected the exhibit of the West Oxford Fair, for the wheel of the spindle and sound of the loom have never gone out of fashion in the good old home and yearly the skeins of yarn and the "home spun" blankets appear. Still the drawn rug and the log cabin quilt remain, and the crazy quilt makes its annual appearance.

Judging from the delicious looking bread and cake, the tempting syrup, jellies, preserves, etc., what the newspapers say about the great number of visitors to Maine, and the summer on the farm, is all true, for the Maine women can cook and "civilized man cannot live without cooks."

They tell us the apple crop is a failure this year. Perhaps the exception proves the rule, for there are some tempting looking ones on the table. Concord grapes too escaped the early frost.

In the lower hall there are found shining traces of corn, vegetables of all kinds and small fruits. We notice several lots of cranberries, one basket is decorated with vines and fruit. Specimen of growing coffee.

Thursday, between the heats of the races, Chas. Bean of Denmark exhibited his trained steers before the grand stand. Many are the tricks they perform, showing that long training and constant practice must have been necessary.

On Friday the weather was all that could be desired, and in the afternoon a large crowd witnessed the races. Ike Wilkes, R. L. Twombly, won in the 2.30 class, and Eva W. M. T. Morrow, second; St. Croix, Dr. Zeigler, third. In the 2.45 class first place was won by Joker M., J. I. Millet; second, Jack, H. J. Ross; third, Cinders, J. S. Ames. Best time 2.34 1/2.

SYSTEMIC CATARRH.

Thousands Suffer From It and Do Not Know It.

Hon. A. T. Wimberly, Collector of the Port of New Orleans, La., and member of the National Republican Committee, in writing of Pe-ru-na, says:

"Pe-ru-na Drug Mfg Co., Columbus, O.: 'Gentlemen—I have used Pe-ru-na and can gladly recommend it as being all you represent. I wish that every man who is in need of a good tonic could know of it. I would advise all such to take it now, and am sure it would never be regretted.'"

A. T. Wimberly.
Pe-ru-na is an internal remedy—a scientific remedy for catarrh. It cures catarrh wherever located. Its cures last. Pe-ru-na gives strength by stopping waste. By saving the mucus it enriches the blood. By cleansing the mucous membranes it preserves the vital forces.

The microbes that cause chills and fever and malaria enter the system through mucous membranes made porous by catarrh. Pe-ru-na heals the mucous membranes and prevents the entrance of malarial germs, thus preventing and curing these affections.

A constant drain of mucus from the system is known as systemic catarrh. This may occur from any organ of the body. Systemic catarrh is more common in spring and summer than in the winter.

Dr. Rachel A. Magaw, 67 West Jefferson Street, Springfield, Ohio: "Your Pe-ru-na is worth its weight in gold. I feel like a new woman. I can't praise it enough. I spent a great deal of money on doctors, but nothing ever did me any good until I sent to you and tried your Pe-ru-na. I now feel well of the catarrh."

Ralph W. Chulip, of La Porte, Ind., says the following as regards Pe-ru-na for catarrh: "I had been troubled with the past year. I became so bad a year and a half ago that I took treatment from two different specialists on catarrh. The discharge from my head was dreadful. Finally my stomach became affected, and eight months ago I had to quit work. I lost in weight from 105 pounds to 140. I was completely discouraged. I procured a bottle of Pe-ru-na and had not taken half the bottle, when, to my joy and surprise, I began feeling better. My head began to get better; the discharge began to dry up. I kept on, and have now taken two bottles. I have resumed my work, have a good appetite, and have not felt better in ten years. I am now 30, and I thank Pe-ru-na for the way I feel to-day."

Moose Killed on the Railroad.

Saturday morning, the train between Harrison and Bridgton on the Bridgton & Saco River Railroad had a duel with a bull moose that disputed their right of way. It was a bad mess for the moose, as he was badly mangled and soon died.

Samuel D. Arnold, the oldest business man in Skowhegan, died at his home, Monday forenoon. He was born in Paris Hill, May 20, 1816. He went to Skowhegan in 1838. He was in mercantile business 56 years. He married Sarah Philbrick of Skowhegan, and to them were born two children, who survive him.

The Rangeley Lake House at Rangeley was damaged by fire, during last Friday night. The fire started in a room on the fourth story, occupied by bell boys, and quickly burned through the roof. The house was full of guests, but nobody was injured. The loss to the owner of the hotel is estimated at $2,000 and is covered by insurance.

William H. Washburn of Canton was stricken with paralysis, Thursday afternoon, Sept. 28, and died about three hours later. Mr. Washburn was a soldier in the War of the Rebellion and a prominent man in Canton, having been one of the selectmen for a great many years. W. G. Whittle will have an auction at his place at Greenwood, at 10 o'clock, Saturday morning, Oct. 14. Mowing machine, horse rake, carts and wagons and full line of other tools necessary on a farm. Chairs, bureau, cook stove, parlor stove and other articles too numerous to mention. Mr. Whittle has sold his farm and will move to Massachusetts.

John Foley of Jay has invented a machine for grinding the splinters and coarse pulp wood which is now wasted and lost. The machine is designed to prevent the loss of the hundreds of tons of coarse material which has to be sifted out after the ordinary grinders have done their work, and which is now allowed to be lost. The great saving therefore which it would effect is quite apparent. The promoters of it are very enthusiastic over its merits, and indeed if it does only half what is claimed for it their fortune is made.

WOMEN AVOID OPERATIONS

THE very word "operation" strikes terror to a woman's soul.

Nearly always these operations become necessary through neglect.

If the menses are very painful, or too frequent and excessive, get the right advice at once and stop taking chances. It will cost you nothing for advice if you write to Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for it, and if you let the trouble run along it will surely cost you a great deal of pain and may mean an operation.

MISS SARAH J. GRAHAM, Sheridanville, Pa., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I had suffered for several years with female troubles and doctored until I was discouraged. I felt wretched and tired of living. I had disease of kidneys, bladder trouble, dropsy and bloating, had womb trouble and a large tumor had formed; in fact all my organs were out of fix.

"Seeing a woman's letter praising your remedies, I wrote to her and she begged of me to try it, telling me all that it had done for her. I bought six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now cannot express my gratitude to you. The tumor began to come away in pieces and I got better all the time. I believe now that I am entirely cured.

"My doctors could not believe it at first, as they all had told me that my case was a hopeless one, and no human power could do me any good. They were astounded. If I can say anything that can help other women, I shall be glad to."

It is not safe to wait until the last moment. Head off trouble. Don't be satisfied without Mrs. Pinkham's advice.

WHAT A BLESSING.

Many of Our Readers are Learning to Appreciate.

What a blessing it is. Sought after by thousands. Many a miserable man is happy now. Nights of unrest, days of trouble. An itching skin disease means this. Itching Piles mean it. Eczema just as bad, and just as hard to cure.

But Doan's Ointment relieves at once, and cures all itching of the skin. A blessing to a suffering public.

Here's proof to back our statement. Mr. Samuel Carr, of 8 School street, Haverhill, Mass., says: "I procured Doan's Ointment for an eruption on my leg which caused me considerable anxiety. The treatment gave satisfactory results and warrants me in saying that Doan's Ointment acts up to the representations made for it."

Doan's Ointment for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no substitutes.

Army Practise March.

A Norway Boy's Experience of a Practise March from Ft. Hamilton, New York Harbor, to Montauk, Long Island, a Distance of One Hundred and Eighty Miles.

Ft. Hamilton, N. Y., Sept. 21, 1899. First I will give you a few points about the battery of which I am writing. First it is Battery K of the 5th Artillery, now stationed at Ft. Hamilton. It is what is called a Siege Battery. It has six 5 in. breech-loading rifles mounted on four wheeled and drawn by eight horses. Next comes the mule train. It contains nine wagons, commonly called pack wagons. These are drawn by six mules driven by one man from the high mule's back and by one line called a jerk line. A six mule team can be driven any where by the use of this line. Upon those wagons were packed ten days' rations, platforms for the guns, ammunition, tents, blacksmith's outfit, carpenter's and saddler tools.

After the wagons were packed on the date of Sept. 26th, '99, and we have received orders to march soon, it is at the sound of the bugle at 9 o'clock that reminds us the next call means for us to mount and start for Montauk for target practise with the big guns. This call for mount and march goes at 9.30 o'clock sharp. The first night we camp at "Overs own" park, a distance of 18 miles. The next morning after reveille, it is a case of pull down the tents, so called "dog tents," and start again at 7 o'clock sharp. At 4.30 o'clock we camp at Bellmore, a distance of 24 miles. The next morning after our tents were packed and ready for the day's march, the Captain, Wm. H. Coffin, called up the boys in blue and said "Who stole the chickens and ducks?" No one knew who did it, of course, but all the same some one had to pay for the same. The next day's march lands us at Islip, 26 1/2 miles distance. The next camping place is at West Haven, 34 miles away. Next stop was at Tianna, distance 38 1/2 miles, and the last camping place before we reached Montauk was Amiganette, a distance of 30 miles from Tianna and a distance of only 9 miles from Montauk, the place at which we are supposed to have target practice.

We have very good weather for this march until we arrive at Montauk. Then very soon after our dog tents were pitched it came in quite thick and dark and the way the rain fell was something terrible. The next morning it had stopped raining and the wind blew a gale. We were camped on the same ground where the soldiers died in such numbers, last fall. When the boys came to Montauk, last summer, the only water they had to drink was from a lake in which there was brackish waters and that was the cause of so many of them dying. In one day, or rather in nine hours, seventy-six of the soldiers died. But now they have got some kind of an evaporator in which they take salt water from the bay and make pure, fresh water of it. It is something like this:

The water is boiled and the steam rises to some steel bars overhead and then as it drops back it is caught in some troughs, the salt and impurities being left behind in the kettles. We had only two of our Battery boys sick enough to return to Hamilton, and a few days later one of them joined the Battery at Montauk.

Now about the target practice; the distance of the range was three miles and eighty yards, and every gunner was a new man at the gun. There 69 shots fired. 23 bull-eyes were made. The target was blown down 17 times. 14 shots hit the white part, the target and the other ten were misses. These guns use twelve pounds of the best smokeless powder and the shell alone weighs 40 lbs.

The second day of the firing, three of the shells burst in the air, and as the camps were between the target and guns and on the shore of the lake we could see the pieces of shells light all around us in the water, and a colored fellow by the name of Sellomon was at work shoeing a mule a piece of a shell struck about five rods away and burst itself in the earth. I went and dug this piece out and have kept it as a relic of that march. After this shell struck so near, our kind and well loved captain ordered us to move from that place.

On Monday, Sept. 5, (it was Tuesday I believe this march started) and on the following Monday at 3.30 o'clock we were at Montauk. On the following Saturday we started back for Hamilton, stopping at the same places we camped at before, and arrived back the following Friday.

To say the march was a very pleasant excursion for the boys would be a mild expression to use.

I will close now by speaking of our captain and 1st lieutenant. They are both loved and respected by all who know them. I have been in this Battery since the 27th of last May and never since I have heard one word against the two men, in fact Capt. Wm. H. Coffin looked up to by his men as was Roosevelt by his men. He has been offered a 1st majorship but refused to accept. 1st majorship and has been to West Point as an Artillery Instructor, but as he and Captain Coffin have been together ever since the captain was promoted from 1st lieutenant to captain, he also refused to accept the appointment.

I will close now by sending my regards to the ADVERTISER readers.

Yours truly,

EVERETT N. RECORD.

Give the Children a Drink

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, cooling food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about 1 cent as much as coffee. 15 and 25c.

Grace Reed and Mabel Kidder attended the fair at Andover.

Rev. Mr. Rand of Vermont held a meeting at the grove, last Sunday evening.

School is progressing finely under the instruction of Miss Whittemore of Andover. There are about twenty-five scholars.

Charlie Taylor and W. J. Hamlin attend the high school at Rumford Falls. One does not know the value of a free high school until they live there; there isn't any.

While J. W. Buz Zell was at the fair at Norway, last week, some one visited his garden, helping themselves to two bushels of tomatoes. This is a trick that is neither smart nor cunning, and will be so proved if the thief is discovered.

Shurtleff's, South Paris, will be presented with a sample bottle of Boschee's German Syrup, free of charge. Only one bottle given to one person, and none to children without order from parents.

No throat or lung remedy ever had such a sale as Boschee's German Syrup in all parts of the civilized world. Twenty years ago millions of bottles were given away, and your druggists still tell you its success was marvelous. It is really the only Throat and Lung Remedy generally endorsed by physicians. One 75 cent bottle will cure or prove its value. Sold by all druggists in this city.

Fryeburg Academy.

Fryeburg Academy has just received a fine set of Kiepert's classical maps which include the Ancient World, Ancient Greece, Gaul and Old England. They are conveniently mounted on spring rollers and supply a long felt want in the school. They were purchased by W. A. Robinson of Boston, chairman of the alumni committee, from funds left from the banquet dinner served on Aug. 25, the reunion day of the academy. Two years ago the school also received a beautiful picture of the Roman Forum given by the Boston Alumni. The academy has been undergoing many repairs, this summer. New desks for both pupils and teachers have been purchased by the trustees and the sanitation and heating of the building have been carefully looked after. The present building has been found to be much too small for the growing and prospering condition of the school, and a movement is on foot for the erection of a new building in the near future.

A Thousand Tongues

Could not express the rapture of Annie E. Springer, of Philadelphia, when Dr. King's New Discovery cured her of a hacking cough that for many years had made life a burden. She says: "After all other remedies and doctors failed, it soon removed the pain in my chest and I can now sleep soundly, something I can scarcely remember doing before. I feel like sounding its praises throughout the Universe." Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed to cure all troubles of the Throat, Chest or Lungs. Price 50c and $1. Trial bottles free at Noyes Drug Store, Norway; F. A. Shurtleff & Co., South Paris.

Waterford Wit.

In the early days of Waterford there lived two men whom we will call Ben and Jim. Jim was a noted liar (so report says) while Ben was something of a wag. The two were at work for one of their neighbors, Jim in the field and Ben in the house. When dinner time came, the lady of the house told Ben to call Jim. After calling him Ben came and the housewife enquired if Jim heard. "I don't know," said Ben, "he answered, but he'll lie so like I—I don't know whether he heard or not. At another time Ben bought a piece of grass to cut for hay. After having it cut, one of his neighbors in passing over the ground saw that it was not all raked. He asked Ben the reason why he left it. "It was not worth it," replied Ben, "it was barely worth a mowing."

More Fish Fry.

John F. Stanley, superintendent of the State fish hatchery at Lake Auburn, was in town, last Thursday, on his return from a trip to Bryant's Pond and Bethel. Mr. Stanley took with him 3,000 landlocked salmon which were placed in Bryant's Pond, 3,000 of the same in Hick's Pond, Greenwood and the same number in Songo Pond, Albany.

In the course of a few days, Mr. Stanley said, a large lot of salmon and brown trout fry will be placed in Lake Pennesseewassee.

"You have one of the finest lakes in the State," said Mr. Stanley, in speaking of Lake Pennesseewassee, "and I see no reason why it will not be as famous for trout and salmon fishing, in a few years, as are some of the larger Maine lakes. The Fish and Game Association here are taking a deep interest in the stocking of the lake with fry, and as I said before, it won't be many years before there'll be good, fast fishing here."

He suggested that it would be a good idea to screen the small streams, and thereby prevent the fish going up to spawn and perhaps get caught by poachers while there, for there are poachers; no doubt, despite the vigilance of the game wardens.

OXFORD.

A Feast of Somnambulism.

Last year, Edward Burns of Oxford went out gunning one afternoon. The day was long and he did more tramping than finding game. As the sun got low in the west he lay down, pillowing his head on the root of a tree and was soon lost in slumber. When he awoke it was dark and he was half a mile from where he went to sleep, and the valuable new shotgun was missing. It was a chance he couldn't find the gun. A few weeks ago Alvin Lovejoy found the gun in the woods on his place Burns dropped it when wandering about in his sleep. Barrel and lock were rusty and the stock had swelled and cracked on account of the wet.

Otisfield Gore Fair.

The cattle show and fair failed to come up to its former standard and all for very obvious reasons, the first and most important being previous stormy weather which interfered with preparation. Though the articles exhibited were not so extensive as formerly, those exhibited were very creditable.
The day seemed to pass off very pleasantly. The attendance was about as large as ever.
Oxford brass band enlivened the occasion with music, and indeed, about all the good that can be extracted from like shows was available to all—namely, to meet and talk with friends and renew old and form new acquaintances.
The dinner furnished by the ladies was excellent.
